A. PROFESSIONAL PROFILE

Lorne Foster is a Black Canadian academic and social researcher, specializing in public policy formation especially in the areas of human rights, race relations and anti-racism practice. He is a Full Professor at York University, and Director of the Institute for Social Research (ISR), which is the leading university-based survey research and data science center in Canada. He was appointed the Tier I York Research Chair (YRC) in Black Canadian Studies and Human Rights. Foster created the Workplace Diversity and Human Rights Certificate (DHRC) in partnership with the Human Resources Professional Association (HRPA). This inclusive workplace initiative was the first Canadian university-industry partnership (UIP) sponsored by a legislated regulatory agency. His interdisciplinary social research combines empirical data science with critical policy studies particularly in areas of anti-racism, social equity and evidence-informed notions of social justice.

Foster is a maternal descendent of Aminidab Handsor, arrived in Accomack County, Virginia in the mid-1600s most likely from Portuguese Angola as a Black indentured servant. According to the history of the Nanticoke-Moors of Delaware who have intermarried for generations, Aminidab's descendant Peregrine Handsor, Foster's great, great grandfather, migrated from Sussex County Delaware to Dover Township, Kent County near Chatham, Ontario in 1857.

Foster was born and raised in Chatham-Kent, Ontario, part of the traditional territory of the Odawa, Potawatomi, Ojibwe and Wyandot First Nations of Canada.

SELECT COMMUNITY SERVICE ACTIVITIES

- Adjudication Panel — Morley S. Wolfe Anti-Racism Youth Book Competition from 2006 to 2008. The youth book awards are an annual event sponsored by Toronto Residents in Partnership promoting anti-racism and anti-discrimination in public schools.
- African Cultural Advisory Board, Toronto Zoo from 2005 to 2010. The Advisory Board provides community overview for the African Cultural Program at Canada’s premier zoo, known for its interactive education, conservation activities, and unique wildlife experience. The Board mandate is to inspire people through cultural expression to live in ways that promote the well-being of the natural world.
- Multiculturalism in Action Youth Project from 2004 to 2008. Multiculturalism in Action is an acclaimed educational program for public schools that is designed to teach school children ages 6 to 12 about issues relating to multiculturalism and tolerance through puppetry. The success of the project, in the initial pilot project for the Toronto District School Board, led to the development of national outreach.

- Ethno-Racial Coalition and Social Action Committee (ERCSA) from 2003 to 2005. ERCSA is a multi-ethnic and multi-racial organization dedicated to the enhancement of multiculturalism and economic inclusion in society and community capacity building. ERCSA is engaged in public education forums, business mentoring, and youth leadership development projects in minority and inner city communities.
- Canadians Against Slavery and Torture (CAST) from 2003 to 2013. CAST is a community coalition and campaign that is dedicated to public education and acts as political lobby against the existence of slavery in the Sudan and torture in the global society.
- Toronto Residents in Partnership (TRIP) from 2002 to 2010. TRIP is a not-for-profit corporation (successor to the North York Committee on Community, Race and Ethnic Relations), mandated to promote racial harmony and understanding through programs in the areas of community development, education, and police services.
- Director for the Concerned Kids Charities of Toronto (Communication through Puppetry) from 2002 to 2006. As a member of the Board of Directors, I oversaw the organizational commitment to public awareness and education for primary and secondary school children in various anti-discrimination programs.
- Blacks & Jews in Dialogue (BJD), League for Human Rights from 1999 to 2004. The League for Human Rights was a finalist for the 2001 Canadian Race Relations Foundation Award of Excellence. The goal of the BJD is to build community partnerships and to strengthen existing alliances within communities. Its mandate is to promote better understanding of cultural diversity, particularly among youth. It also provides a manual containing models of programming for Black and Jewish communities across the country, which can be adapted for other joint community dialogues and initiatives.
- Taking Action Against Hate Project, League for Human Rights from 2001 to 2004. I help conducted public education and awareness workshops for school districts, law enforcement organizations, and community and professional associations focusing on hate and hate crimes in a human rights context. I have also been instrumental in launching a training manual entitled "Taking Action Against Hate" that has become a standard resource for governmental and non-governmental organizations in the field of anti-discrimination work.
- Member, Urban Alliance on Race Relations (UARR) from 1986 to 2000. The UARR is a non-profit charitable organization that engages in seminars and conferences on race relations concerns. The UARR works with boards of education to develop and implement policies and programs, and it works with police services to improve relations with minority racial communities.

Human Resources Professional Association (HRPA), 150 Bloor Street, Toronto, Canada, March 23–25, 2015.
- Public Policy and Administration, and Human Resource Management Intensive Training Program for Palestinian National School of Administration instructors. As part of a contingent of York professors from the School of Public Policy & Administration (SPPA) and other administrative sciences lead by Professor Saeed Rahnema, I developed and delivered intensive training for visiting Palestinian civil servants on “Human Rights in the Public Sector.” The General Personnel Council of the Palestinian Authority (GPC) selected 25 civil servants, through a competitive selection process, as the nucleus of the internal training for the trainers (TOT) program. This capacity-building program was partnered by York University and the Palestinian National School of Administration (PNSA) in collaboration with Al-Quds University and the GPC. York University, Toronto, Canada, May 5–16, 2014.
- Organized and conducted a professional development workshop program on human rights compliance in the workplace at the Human Resources Professional Association (HRPA). This 5-day workshop marked the first of its kind, i.e., a partnership between an academic institution, a government organization, and a professional association. Yorkville Conference Centre, 150 Bloor Street West, Suite 200, Toronto, Canada, April 22–24, 2014.
- Participated in “Youth Criminal Justice Conference” information and partnership forums held in Greater Toronto Area, Durham, and Peel regions, focusing on generating a network for the exchange of information and development of best practices in youth crime prevention. These first-of-a-kind community forums brought together youth services professionals, local communities, young people, the business community, and the police in order to provide information on the Youth Criminal Justice Act, and to facilitate partnership strategy sessions. Ontario Ministry of Public Safety and Security, March 2004.
- Conducted a series of workshops throughout Ontario and parts of the United States, at various educational institutions, and community and volunteer organizations for the League for Human Rights “Inter-Cultural Dialogue Program,” providing training in the area of coalition building and strategic alliances, from 1998 to 2004.
- Trainer and facilitator for “Taking Action Against Hate Project,” League for Human Rights. I helped to conduct public education and awareness workshops for school districts, law enforcement organizations, and community and professional associations, focusing on hate and hate crimes in a human rights context, from 2001 to 2004.

OTHER PEDAGOGICAL INNOVATIONS

- Human Rights Training for Educators. This professional development training course is designed to provide an overview of Ontario's human rights system and its relevance for educators. (Piloted in Fall 2017 in partnership with the York Region District School Board, this Fall training session consists of 10 full-day courses, covering human rights essentials for all the (500) principals and senior management in the Board region. Fall 2017.)
- Diversity and Human Rights Certificate. I designed this innovative pedagogy to contribute to a comprehensive, human rights-oriented conceptual framework for the analysis and support of diversity in Canada. Its purpose is to serve as a training and capacity-building project in support of enhanced delivery of services by human rights field operations, diversity officers, human resource practitioners, and related professionals, as well providing a resource for the increased diversity awareness among the modern workforce.
- Diversity & Human Rights Compliance Processes for Organizational Settings Workshop. I designed and coordinated this 5–day professional development workshop program instructed by both academics and industry professionals, which offers a unique professional development opportunity for service practitioners to gain a comprehensive understanding of how to ensure human rights compliance in the workplace. (Piloted in May 2014 in partnership with York and the Human Resources Professional Association.)

- Public Policy Analysis Study Guide (on-line resource/exercises familiarizing students with theories, models, and analytical frameworks for understanding policymaking, particularly in the Canadian context).
- Experiential Education Action Plan (PowerPoint presentation/action plan for the integration of theory and practice through the strong commitment to integrated learning and the civic engagement of the students and of the campus community).
